

To Be Alone

Bobby Vinton

To be alone with just a memory
Is this my destiny to be alone?

You left me, dear, with just the once to see
I know you meant for me to be alone

Now you've left me
But there's one thing you didn't count on
Far beyond your wildest imagination:
I kneeled, I prayed
And I found a much greater consolation

And now, I share a greater love, you see
It's not so bad for me to be alone

And on my knees in the darkness
I kneeled, I prayed, and I cried...
And suddenly, I knew
That there would always be someone at my side

I'll have a friend beyond eternity
It doesn't worry me to be alone
