Dead Rabbit

Bodysnatcher

I should have been a better brother for you

Dead rabbit
The body aches, the pins and needles ran through your veins
Burning limbs and blind spells were just a fraction of the pain you faced

(Guilty)
I'm sorry, I wasn't by your side
(Broken)
Now I'm beating myself up, cause you were right by mine
(Brother)
Your voice inside my head, is what gets me through (Keep sake)
I'll keep these ashes around my neck
In the memory of you

I'll see you in the end

Feelings of guilt constantly clouding my mind
How could this happen to you
Plans we had for the future now gone
We had so much left do

Will anyone ever get your story now
You were writing your words, for the world to hear, your, cry's for help

Now we'll will never know your ache
Fighting to carry on your legacy

You were hurting, just trying to numb the pain
You weren't trying to leave us for good

How do we move on from this knowing we will never see you again

These words, were yours
"You don't know real pain
Until you feel mine
Losing faith on a bathroom floor"

And that's exactly how you went...
The thought of you curled up on the floor will haunt us forever

I'm sorry. And I fucking miss you
