Love Lies

I was lost, then I found you Never thought it would be this way I showed you my heart, left it unguarded Like a thief in the night you stole it away

Now you're gone, the pain goes on and on I still hear you whispering to me through the shadows of the ni ght

Love lies, you're just a victim of the headlines You're running on into a cold night You're just a number of the love lies

All alone you call it survival He lost at love to a stranger's lines Walking the streets, searching with vengeance For a face that he dreams of night after night

Time goes on, all signs of life stolen, simple dreams were all broken Best of times become desperation but how many tears must you cr y to survive

Love lies, you're just a victim of the headlines You're running on into a cold night You're just a number of the love lies

They met late one night in the city Both men knew only one would stay Scratched a picture of a heart on a bullet And took his life away
