

You

Borgeous

Never really scared to show you what I feel inside
Everything laid out on the table, baby, you and I
I find myself living it up, making this dream come true
Everything I see in my head is all because of you, you

Everything I see in my head is all because of you, you

All because of you

Everything I see in my head is all because of you
Everything I see in my head is all because of you

Everything I see in my head is all because of you, you

All because of you

Everything I see in my head is all because of you
Everything I see in my head is all because of you

I find myself living it up, making this dream come true
Everything I see in my head is all because of you, you

All because of you

Everything I see in my head is all because of you
Everything I see in my head is all because of you