

Cross out the ones that try to hold on and you can't relate to
I'm not the one to make you realize the complications
What's at stake here? I tried so hard to forget the way
You will remain here, the way you reject everything I am
The same excuses you've given me before
They've got us nowhere and I still can't ignore
The way you reject everything I am
Now it's too late for you to accept me the way I am

Crossed out when you came into my way
Your intentions are deflected
All you want is to feed off the weak
Take them down where no one succeeds
The strangest things always seem to rearrange me
When will you see we can't contain what we've been facing

I can see nothing will save me
Say goodbye and liberate me
We can't contain what we've been facing
So now we know who's in control

Fill in the cracks on this ride, never coming back
Say what you will, it's still your guilt
What's at stake here? I tried so hard to forget the way
You will remain here, the way you reject everything I am

The same excuses you've given me before
They've got us nowhere and I still can't ignore
The way you reject everything I am
Now it's too late for you to accept me the way I am

Back down to the venomous highway
Just a reason is all I needed
Can you feel that you feed off the weak?
Heard the words but not explained to me
The strangest things always seem to rearrange me
When will you see we can't contain what we've been facing

Now it's time to disengage
I can see that nothing will save me
You crossed the line, now pay the price
Say goodbye and liberate me
Now it's time to disengage