Ring Finger

Born Ruffians

She would think, she would hope
If she knocked on his door, he'd open up
And he would wink, she would smile
And they'd sit and talk for a little while

People will say the strangest things
To get you to put a diamond ring
Upon that little finger
Beside the one they use to tell you
They don't want no one
No one, no one, no one
No one, no one, no one

He'd drink tea and ask for more
And she'd think that his heart had been restored
But the truth would not come out
See, that boy didn't know what love was about

And people will say the strangest things
To get you to put a diamond ring
Upon that little finger
Beside the one they use to tell you
They don't want no one
No one, no one, no one
No one, no one, no one
No one, no one, no one
No one, no one, no one

People will say the strangest things
To get you to put a diamond ring
Upon that little finger
Beside the one they use to tell you
They don't want no one, no one
No one, no one, no one, no one

No one, no one, no one
No one, no one, no one
No one, no one, no one
No one, no one, no one
