

Takes Time

Born Without Bones

You took her blankets away and now she's shaking
Naked skin dressed in moss and mother's aching
She needs a little time, her mouth's dry
Flips through channels and moans, she keeps on guessing
Which one has her shows and keeps regressing
She needs a little time, she'll be fine

But I don't see this guilt getting any younger
I can't help but think that she's getting so much older than me

Drove four hours each way, felt I was pacing
Maybe sometimes there is no explanation
You just need a little time to say goodbye

But I don't see this guilt getting any younger
I can't help but think that she's getting so much older
Feeling so much colder

But I can stick around
You will always remember me
I will never let you down
You will always remember me
And I will try to cut that shit out
You will always remember me
I will never wear your crown
You will always remember your
Always remember your
Always remember your name

You can't always repress what you feel inside
Or you will only regret what you will never recognize
You can't always repress what you feel inside
Or you will only regret what you will never recognize
Beat dreams howl away from the basement
Hard luck's futile
I'm not your entertainment
I just need a little time to say goodbye

But I don't see this guilt getting any younger
I can't help but think that she's getting so much older
Feeling so much colder

But I can stick around
You will always remember me
I will never let you down
You will always remember me
And I will try to cut that shit out
You will always remember me
I will never wear your crown
You will always remember your
Always remember your
Always remember your name