

Armageddon

Boundaries

You hate what you see
Just a shape of gray that you've given a name
Sickened by the sight of what you've made, who's to blame
You said I'm better off dead
But you're the reason that I still sleep with a knife by the bed
Haunted
By the ones that I let in

Memories become enemies
The things we made, took no time to fade
It sinks in through my blood and my skin

This is not the start of the end this is armageddon
Life in a state of destruction
This is not the start this is not the end this is armageddon
This is what happens when love is dying

The walls of your heart are barbed and bloody
Hurt and hungry
The kind of pain that can't be seen
Let winds give wings to my screams
Gouge, gash, and stab at my skull
Make me feel it

The way that days pass, the ways that things change
As reality approaches, I push it away
I swear that they'll bury me with your memory
You will never know salvation
It just gets worse
It just gets worse
Who's to blame
Who's to blame

This is not the start of the end this is armageddon
Life in a state of destruction
This is not the start this is not the end this is armageddon
This is what happens when love is dying
They said it gets better
But they were lying
You just get numb to the feeling
A life spent in years still waiting here
No more
I won't give you any more of me
