

Darkness Shared

Boundaries

Cattle forced forward
Choking down the scent of death with every breath
I never asked for any of this
Existence ushered in, bathed in the cries of the divine

Are you prepared
To have your darkness shared?

Systematic traumatic
You make me sick
I would rather be someone I hate than let you hurt me
The longer you're alive
The less places it has to hide
Bred, fed, and bled
Your whole life determined

Watch you come crawling back across broken glass
Empty the shame from your veins
No amount of pain
Could ever come close to what you've done to me

I will never be whole again
There's no way to replace what's been taken
I am less than I was
I am more than you've become
Your favor flickers like a flame
Kept around until you didn't need me

Coward carved into the pad of your palm
Infecting everything that you touch

What have you ever done for anyone?
Anything to get ahead
Life built on top of the dead
How can you live with yourself?

I will never be whole again
There's no way to replace what's been taken
I am less than what I was
I am more than you've become

I am less, I am more
I am less, I am more

What's gonna happen when I cut your head off, you stupid motherfucker?