

Silver Moon

Boy & Bear

Never enough this life
The silver moon trap
I'm looking over
You bleeding green and brine

'Cause I can hardly see
Through all the white caps
It's spilling over
The feelings Alkaline

I know love when it raises its head
But I've earned the right
And is it better to be brave or content
As I burn inside for more?

And I don't know how
You got so far with them hanging on
They live in our past, you said
I must have been sleeping
When the thunder came back, crack
It's spilling over
I dream in Alkaline and

I know love when it raises its head
But I've earned the right
And is it better to be brave or content
As I burn inside for more?

This won't be the last time
The last time
Never enough this side of life
This won't be the last time
The last time
Never enough this side of life

And I don't know how
You always fell for this echelon
I'm looking over
But we've been over that

'Cause I can hardly see through all the white caps
It's tipping over
Maybe that's best this time and

I know love when it raises its head
But I've earned the right
And is it better to be brave or content
While I burn inside for more?

This won't be the last time
The last time
Never enough this side of life
This won't be the last time
The last time
Never enough this side of life

This won't be the last time

The last time
Never enough this side of life
This won't be the last time
The last time
Never enough this side of life