

Sleep Talking

Boy & Bear

Sometimes It keeps me up at night
Beware of the befriended moon
But I'm tired of waking up in fright, you see

I'm on a mission you feel it
I got addicted you see it's
Some form of sickness at sea
But I wasn't there when you wanted

If I was walking by for the first time
Would you still feel the same
Would we collide
You told me I talk in my sleep every night
But If I knew what to say in the daylight
You must have known that I've tried

I'm waking up
The silence is so sobering
Maybe I could drop by
We'll watch each others suffering
My mind is such a fickle friend, you see

I'm on a mission you feel it
I got addicted you see it's
Some form of numbness and grieving
I wasn't there when you wanted

If I was walking by for the first time
Would you still feel the same
Would we collide
You told me I talk in my sleep every night
But If I knew what to say in the daylight
You must have known that I've tried

And all my friends say I look better
But all that love gets heavy too
If I could just reach out to let her
Know how I got it all wrong

I'm on a mission you feel it
I got addicted you see it's
Some form of sickness at sea
But I wasn't there when you wanted

If I was walking by for the first time
Would you still feel the same
Would we collide
You told me I talk in my sleep every night
But If I knew what to say in the daylight
You must have known that I've tried
