

Ocean Equation

Boy Hits Car

Time is gonna tell
For all remains unknown
Got a hurricane inside my head
But nothing left to show
When there's not much left to say
You're sitting all alone
With that old familiar pain
The ocean takes me home

Go look inside your heart, boy
Tell me what you find
I need a little guidance here
Cause love's so fucking blind
The ocean is my friend
Thus he speaks to me
Like nothing else can
Within her I am free
Her currents dragging me
These possibilities
Her fallitivity
Is something to believe

Let's ride this wave together
We'll ride through life forever
Come on and ride
And now we're drifting all alone
But we always end up back home

So tonight will you come to me
One last time before
I drift away upon the stream
But far from any shore
Our tide is slack, the moon is full
She won't forever more
Unequations of this heart
Deep as ocean floor
So tell me what's in store
I'm drifting from our shore
Torn forevermore
I'm drifting from our shore

Let's ride this wave together
We'll ride through life forever
Come on and ride
And now we're drifting all alone
But we always end up back home
And now we're drifting all alone
Trying so hard not to go home
