Disappear into your backdrop I will haunt you in that place Hands all over my old tee shirt And on my waist

You were always made for leaving Hung me on your every word Followed you like a lost child For what it's worth

Like it started and it slowly died Beautiful someone cry your eyes And I always wasn't over my head I couldn't keep out of your bed

Disappear into the sunlight Face painted with delight Left alone I'm in the shadows And drunk at night

You were always made for leaving Hung me on your every word Followed you like a lost child For what it's worth

Like it started and it slowly died Beautiful someone cry your eyes And I always wasn't over my head I couldn't keep out of your bed

Like it started and it slowly died Beautiful someone cry your eyes And I always wasn't over my head I couldn't keep out of your bed

Like it started and it slowly died Beautiful someone cry your eyes And I always wasn't over my head I couldn't keep out of your bed
