

Shiva's Tears

Brainstorm

One million miles I'm walking, one million miles away
And still you hear me talkin
Full of doubt on a painful way
I'm not a fortune teller nor support the monarchy
I'm setting up the situation to destroy my scenery
Take all the trouble with me, more than I can afford
Anscrewed and full of laughter, as qirija speaks the word

Oh well I don't know, whatever I'll see...

Come slowly, won't you look at me instead
Depressed and lonely, listen to what shiva said
Taste the falvour of a hundred million tears
I stare into her eyes
Crimes the hide since thousand years

As now my live is shifted, I crawl on holy ground
My blodd and soul are God gifted
Made me lokkin'in from the out
Still I hear their voices singing
Gliding sounds from the left to right
I try to close my eyes
But can't get her out of my sight
I know this place is haunted
This temple of tears
This lust I always wanted
Beautiful and lustful fears,..
And still I don't know where do I go