

Face The World

Brandon Jenner

Eyes of the universe, judge me as you please
But these pieces in my head were placed together so randomly
Drifting on the words from this shadow of a friend
"You can follow me around if you treat me well till the end"

I'm all alone with you right here
I didn't want to turn my back on you
But I had to face the world

The clothes upon our bodies give us the power to pretend
If only what we saw was all that they would comprehend
Our statues on a poster, weren't we bustling with pride
But these dreams will always catch us if we seek and never hide

I'm all alone with you right here
I'm sorry that I turned my back on you
But I had to face the world

Grab a hold of someone as we sink into the sky
You'd think spinning on the Earth would be enough of a ride
We lost the magic potion, or at least that's what you said
All the happiness we'd found once, all ambitions we had shed

I'm all alone with you right here
No I didn't want to turn my back on you
But I had to face the world
I had to face the world
I had to face the world
