

Shadow

Brandon Jenner

Lately
I get somber when you call me
Maybe it's just your tone
I feel it in my bones
In the dark sky
Gravity flows to our cold eyes
Together we still roam
Together but so alone

I try to write you a song
But all our memories have gone
Shot with Novocaine

Lay with me one more time cause I hope
That my old friend will come back from behind your shadow
You're a lock without a key
I never thought that you would be
The stranger in my bed laying next to me

With my eyes closed
I see more color than I've ever known
It's like how we felt before
And all I want is more
When we're stable
Our feet stomp down until we're able
To carry the weights some more
Or drag it across the floor

I try to carry on
In hopes it won't be long
Shielded from the pain

Lay with me one more time cause I hope
That my old friend will come back from behind your shadow
You're a lock without a key
I never thought that you would be
The stranger in my bed laying next to me

Let's just wait for the feeling to stay
It always returns when we get out of its way
Or we can go, chase the fire we've known
So our type of love will continue to grow

Lay with me one more time cause I hope
That my old friend will come back from behind your shadow
You're a lock without a key
I never thought that you would be
The stranger in my bed laying next to me
You're the stranger in my bed laying next to me