I Say Again

Bread

I say again You didn't hear me once again So I'll have to say again

I knew you when You didn't crawl behind your wall Can you hear my voice at all Must I have to say it again

I'm filling up the room with all the words I've said Hoping that one or two will make it through And get inside your head

I say again You didn't hear me once again So I'll have to say again