Changes

Breathe Atlantis

I saw fire burn around me
The flames rising higher
I didn't see it coming and now it's too late
Not enough to climb that mountain
Not enough to make it through
Welcome to my world
Welcome to the truth

For such a long time I couldn't see
I'm not the person I used to be
Tell me what it takes to breathe again

I won't come back until you accept who I am now
I can't give up
If you can't love me who I am right now
I'm better off on my own

We both went through changes
There's poison in the water
Now I can see that tragedy is waiting for us
Drowning in the heartache
Underneath the truth
Why can't you see it there's no you and me

For such a long time I couldn't see
I'm not the person I used to be
Tell me what it takes to breathe again

I won't come back until you accept who I am now
I can't give up
If you can't love me who I am right now
I'm better off on my own

I won't come back
Do you accept who I am now
I can't give up my life
If you can love me now
Finally change somehow
Then we might have a chance right now

I won't come back until you accept who I am now
I can't give up
If you can't love me who I am right now
I'm better off on my own