Brett Eldredge

You're singing to your favorite coffee cup
Your baby blues say things are looking up
Wanna know what's in your head
As you're tangling up the necklace on your chest
In a lilac dress

You don't know it, but you're gorgeous
Speak your mind when you got something to say
You don't know it, but you're flawless
Even when the tears are rolling down your face
You don't know it, but you're lightning
You're the power in the sunshine and the rain
You don't know it, but you're gorgeous
Let me be the one to tell you every day

You're gorgeous, gorgeous, gorgeous
Gorgeous, gorgeous, gorgeous

You're smelling flowers at the corner stand
You're skipping steps as you hold my hand
And you're telling dirty jokes
As we take the scenic route to walk you home
Look at you flow

You don't know it, but you're gorgeous
Speak your mind when you got something to say
You don't know it, but you're flawless
Even when the tears are rolling down your face
You don't know it, but you're lightning
You're the power, you're the sunshine and the rain
You don't know it, but you're gorgeous
Let me be the one to tell you every day

You're gorgeous, gorgeous, gorgeous
Gorgeous, gorgeous, gorgeous

You're spinning round a light post
As the world is standing still You're effortless and heaven-sent
The mansion on the hill
And on the days it's hard to see it
I'll make sure you always will
When you smile at me
And, baby, honestly

You don't know it, but you're gorgeous
Speak your mind when you got something to say
You don't know it, but you're flawless
Even when the tears are rolling down your face
You don't know it, but you're lightning
You're the power, you're the sunshine and the rain
You don't know it, but you're gorgeous
Let me be the one to tell you every day (Oh)

You're gorgeous, gorgeous, gorgeous (Oh yeah, you're gorgeous)
Gorgeous, gorgeous, gorgeous (Oh, baby, you're gorgeous)
Gorgeous, gorgeous, gorgeous (Oh, gorgeous)

Gorgeous, gorgeous, gorgeous (Oh)
