

St. Tropez

Brett Eldredge

There's a place
By the sea
Where your pain fades magically
Not a shade
Of a doubt
Let me tell you all about

All the beautiful women in St. Tropez
Break your heart while they sip on the Tanqueray
While you're out on the beach on a sunny day
Hoping love comes your way

And you say, "Baby, I really need you
Tell me lies, and, then, I will believe you
Suntan lines and a smile that will ease you
I swear: all the good times never leave you

Just take me away
To St. Tropez."

I saw her dancing, dancing with her eyes
Saw that little dress sliding up her thighs
Then I felt the rising, rising of the tide
Taught me how to swim, took me for a ride

Then I felt a summer wind blowing through
With a little Mediterranean groove
And a little rum and pineapple juice
Will make you feel it too

All the beautiful women in St. Tropez
Break your heart while they sip on the Tanqueray
While you're out on the beach on a sunny day
Hoping love comes your way

And you say, "Baby, I really need you
Tell me lies, and, then, I will believe you
Suntan lines and a smile that will ease you
I swear: all the good times never leave you

Just take me away
To St. Tropez."

Suave
Drown your sorrows
And tomorrows
In agave
Suave

Suave
Drown your sorrows
And tomorrows
In agave
Suave

Just take me away
