

That Won't Ever Change

Brian McComas

If you need me to, I'll be a thief for you
Steal every hurt you have inside
And if it's new horizons that you're realizing
I'll be that thing you never tried

Yeah

I don't have to understand you
You don't need to say a thing
I just want to be a hand to hold
Through what life might bring

And if you're out of light, stuck inside the night
I'll be the sun that you can shine
And when you're on a ledge, need to lose the edge
I'll be the liquor and the wine

Yeah

I don't want an explanation I know all I need to know
Without any hesitation I'll go where I need to go
Yeah I know it might sound strange
But that won't ever change
It won't change

Yeah

I don't have to understand you
You don't need to say a thing
No you don't, no no
I just want to be a hand to hold
Through what life might bring

Yeah I know it might sound strange
But that won't ever change
No it won't, it won't change