

Stack My Money

Brian Setzer

How am I ever gonna stack my money
Working in a job like this
How am I ever gonna stack my money
And line up pretty girls to kiss
How am I ever gonna stack my money
I see you laughing, but it ain't funny
How am I ever gonna stack my money
Working in a job like this

When my shoulders were broad
And my muscles were strong
The ladies they would call me Slim
My Daddy said
You better learn yourself a trade
But I thought I was smarter than him
I put all my chips on Lady Luck
Now as I unload another laundry-truck
How am I ever gonna stack my money
Working in a job like this

Stack my money (stack my money)
Stack my money (stack my money)
How am I ever gonna stack my money

I see you laughing but it ain't funny
If I just had your pretty lips to kiss
You think I'd be working in a job like this
How am I ever gonna stack my money
Working in a job like this
How am I ever gonna stack my money
I see you laughing but it ain't funny
If I just had your pretty lips to kiss
You think I'd be working in a job like this
How am I ever gonna stack my money
Working in a job like this

How am I ever gonna stack my money
Working in a job like this
How am I ever gonna stack my money
And line up pretty girls to kiss
I'm pounding out them license plates
Bettin' cigarettes on crazy eights
How am I ever gonna stack my money
Working in a job like this