

Everything

Broken Iris

I can take these consistent changes
As long as they absolve with you
I can say this process is painless
That'd be a lie

I don't have the strength to let you go
I don't love this life enough to live it alone
Deep within my soul, I've always known
That you're everything I've ever needed

I can sense your slight hesitation
Hesitate, hesitating through
I can wait, my love is patient
When the soul I've ever met is you

I don't have the strength to let you go
I don't love this life enough to live it alone
Deep within my soul, I've always known
That you're everything I've ever needed

Maybe I should move on
When I feel our love is far too strong
I could open up even more than before
Just say the words and I'm all yours
Maybe I should move on
[?]
Maybe I should be strong
[?]

I don't have the strength to let you go
I don't love this life enough to live it alone
Deep within my soul, I've always known

I don't have the strength to let you go

I don't have the strength to let you go
I don't love this life enough to live it alone
Deep within my soul, I've always known
That you're everything I've ever needed
Everything I've ever needed
Everything I've ever needed