Stars and Sons

Broken Social Scene

Then when you let it You asked for nothing Why don't you share it All of the time you live There's something out there

This one will know, how far to live on This one will ever know in this town And in the red room At a distance

How would you know it You're the same when you're living I don't know it It won't be this

This one will know, how far to live on This one will know, how far to live on

All of the time you wait, there's someone out there And no one can find all the red

How would you show it You can see through the red I don't know it It won't be this time

This one will know, how far to live on This one will know, how far to live on