

Rise On Water

Brother Cane

With a pocket full of reasons
And empty hands that used to hold
The comfort of a life once filled with hope

But now the hope is fading
And you're losing faith in purity
Torn between what's right, and what you need

Nobody ever told you how dark the sky could turn from blue
Nobody sold you on more than one mistake
Nobody ever told you how deep the water gets
When you jump in

Reaching out for something
That amounts to nothing once again
A solid life degraded even more
The you that you now love is a lie

Nobody even warned you, no one could even reach you there
Nobody ever thought you, could ever lose control
And nothing ever drove you, so out of my mind

Rise on water,
Rise on water,
Rise above and breathe