

Flight Of The Ravens

Brothers Of Metal

Odin's ravens cross the sky
All-seeing, everywhere they fly

Chasing the horizon, searching all the lands
On a quest for wisdom, sent by Odin's hand
Wings over Asgard, soaring through the sky
Feathers will fall over Midgard as they are returning to All-Father's side

Korpar flyger I natten
Solen den stiga skall
All fader ruvar på makten
Minne och håg är hans

Heralds of destruction
Or a blessing in disguise
They may tell a tale of your glory
Or speak of your demise

Seekers of secrets, tell me of my fate
Will I face a violent death
Or will I be victorious today?

Proud on his shoulders, they stay by his side
Keepers of thought and of memory
Eternally on their wings of mystery
Unraveling the truth of the unknown
Gloriously in the sky you will see
The ravens are flying tonight
Bound to each other
They're flying forever free

Patiently he's waiting
Each dawn for their return
The raven king is wandering
The fear inside him burns

His thoughts and his memories left him in their flight
What will become of the father of gods
If the ravens were lost in the night?

Proud on his shoulders, they stay by his side
Keepers of thought and of memory
Eternally on their wings of mystery
Unraveling the truth of the unknown
Gloriously in the sky you will see
The ravens are flying tonight
Bound to each other
They're flying forever free

Ancient. Ancient and glorious
Over the rainbow, into the sky, over the lands
Mythical, so wondrous and bright
Over the clouds, on their journey through time
A magical voyage, as wide as the eye can see

Bound to each other, they're flying forever free
