

Waiting On The End Of The World

Bruce Springsteen

We loved each other like a disease
I came to you crawlin' on my knees
Your eyes were filled with rain
I could feel the poison runnin' through my veins

I'm waitin', I'm waitin', I'm waitin', waitin' on the end of the world
I'm waitin', I'm waitin'

For one deadly kiss, what would we give?
Your skin tremblin' 'neath my fingertips
All I know is someday, for love, baby, everybody pays

I'm waitin', I'm waitin', I'm waitin', waitin' on the end of the world
I'm waitin', I'm waitin'

We hide from the truth in our hearts
One look and everything would fall apart
Here, in your arms a soft decay
I can feel myself wastin' away

Will you meet me in the halls
Where light scatters and darkness falls
Here in this feast of friends
A breath and we begin again

I'm waitin', I'm waitin', I'm waitin', waitin' on the end of the world
I'm waitin', I'm waitin', I'm waitin', waitin' on the end of the world
I'm waitin', I'm waitin', I'm waitin', waitin' on the end of the world
I'm waitin', I'm waitin', I'm waitin', waitin' on the end of the world
I'm waitin', I'm waitin'
