

Deliverance

Brutal Attack

As we turn the corners along life's path
Its hard to let go, with even one more laugh
So much pain there's so much heart ache
So many hurdles so much room for that one mistake
This is the spear of our own destiny
So aim it high and aim it true
We hold our own fate our own deliverance
And I bring this knowledge to you
Where are the answers, their here in our hearts

We each have a different role, a different part
With realization comes strength and from this pride
Knowing that the hammer of the gods, is on our side
So as the earth starts to tremble, starts to shake
And the children of the sun start to awake
We look to the sky in search of the sign
That will show them that this finally is the time