

He Knows The Struggle

Bryan Martin

Well, he ain't a saint, but he knows when he's been wrong
But he holds it all inside for so damn long
He's a husband, he's a father, and this life gets hard to juggl
e
But that man, you can bet he knows the struggle

'Cause he ain't all about himself, he ain't one to ask for help
He works hard to provide for his kids and his wife
Calloused hands and busted knuckles
Yeah, that man, you can bet he knows the struggle

He's got demons closing in from all sides
But that angel back at home gives him reason to fight
All the vices and the voices, they try to make him stumble
But that man, you can bet he knows the struggle

'Cause he ain't all about himself, he ain't one to ask for help
He works hard to provide for his kids and his wife
Calloused hands and busted knuckles
Yeah, that man, you can bet he knows the struggle

'Cause he ain't all about himself, he ain't one to ask for help
He works hard to provide for his kids and his wife
Calloused hands and busted knuckles
And with the weight on his mind, peace is hard to find
But his knees never buckle
Because that man, you can bet he knows the struggle
You can bet he knows the struggle