

Chicago

Bryant Barnes

Where have you been?
Thought you let me go
Guess we're the same
You make me whole
Tell me what's changed
Do you still have my clothes?
I kept yours safe

The moon lights your skin
You turn mine into stone
I still get nervous when we're alone
And I know it hurts when I tell you why
I think you should stay

I never even asked for much
I miss when we'd call
I miss when we'd kiss
So can you drop the mask for once?
Do you have to act like I don't exist?

Can we talk on a drive?
Am I not worth your time?
I never even asked for much
But you wanna act like I don't exist

We're a lightning strike in another life
Maybe you could save us
Maybe you were right

But I never even asked for much
I miss when we'd call
I miss when we'd kiss
So can you drop the mask for once?
Do you have to act like I don't exist?

Can we talk on a drive?
Am I not worth your time?
I never even asked for much
But you wanna act like I don't exist

Don't let it end like this
Don't let it end like this
Don't let it, don't let it end like this
Don't let it, don't let it, don't let it end like this
Don't let it end like this
Don't let it, don't let it end like this
Don't let it end like this