

Watching My Friends Fall In Love

Brynn Cartelli

Under the table, touching at the knees
Suspicious actions that you think nobody sees
I'm having fun
Watching my friends fall in love

You can't deny it, can't deny with a straight face
You try to hide it while you're driving to his place
I can't help but blush
Watching my friends fall in love

The third wheel keeps on rolling
Not stealing your moment
I can't help but notice that something has changed
But I can't look away

As you free fall, I see it all
Like the man up on the moon
I know that right now you're trying to figure out
If it's too good to be true
And it could crash, it could burn
And he could leave, leave you hurt
Drag it out, or in all at once
But I think it's fun
Watching my friends fall in love

You keep it quiet, don't get too far in advance
At 3 a.m. I catch you gripping honest hands
And in the hallway he says, "Do you wanna dance?"
And I'm a fan
Just watching my friends—

The third wheel keeps on rolling
Not stealing your moment
I can't help but notice that something has changed
And I can't look away

As you free fall, I see it all
Like the man up on the moon
I know that right now you're trying to figure out
If it's too good to be true
And it could crash, it could burn
And he could leave, leave you hurt
Drag it out, or in all at once
But I think it's fun

Watching my friends fall in love, love, love, love
Watching my friends fall in love, love, love, love

You free fall and I see it all
Like the man up on the moon
Right now you're trying to figure out
If it's too good to be true
And it could crash, it could burn
And he could leave, leave you hurt
Drag it out, or in all at once
But I think it's fun, you know he's the one
You wrap yourself up, unwind and I'm done

I think it's fun
Watching my friends fall in love
