

They'd Have To Carry Me Away

Buck Owens

They'd have to carry me away
To some dark and lonely place
I should loose your love today
They'd have to carry me away

The man next door ain't himself anymore
Since he lost the lady in his life
But he's hung tough who'd die in love and time he'll be alright
But if I were him it was sink or swim I'd be on the bottom today
The men in white would come tonight
They'd have to carry me away

They'd have to carry me away
To some dark and lonely place
Where the sun don't ever shine
Where you never crossed my mind
Somewhere I'd never see your face
Somewhere I'd never hear your name
I should loose your love today
They'd have to carry me away

A friend on mine spent all his time starrng out the window into space
Till someone new changed his view now he's got a new look on his face
But if I woke up without your love
I don't think I could make it through the day
The men in white would come tonight
They'd have to carry me away

The men in white would come tonight
They'd have to carry me away
