Wasting No More Time

Buckcherry

We come from broken homes, coast to coast
It's hard to accept when there's debts unpaid
We all have lived, we all have sinned
We all get shattered when we're feeling that pain

But just a little love gets me feeling like
I figured it out, rid my doubt, so come in my house
Pain ain't the killer when it's making you strong
Helps you along and guess we learn from it all and

I know things have change, so
I need something to kill the pain
I'm getting' older and recognize
Gonna have to face it
I ain't wasting no more time

When we set the stage, and look for change
It's funny how the story kinda looks insane
The lines are crossed, the point is lost
And all you want to do is go and turn the page

And when I hit the road I can separate and be with my thoughts
Walking the walk, let go of my loss
Don't blame the sinner it's a waste of your time
Look to the sky, it's gonna open up your mind and

I know things have change, so
I need something to kill the pain
I'm getting' older and recognize
That everything's better when I compromise
All the pain it goes away
And there will always be another day
I pick myself up and realize
Gonna have to face it I ain't wasting no more time

All my hope and all my dreams
Unlock the doors to everything
And I can see
I ain't wasting no more time

All my hope and all my dreams
Unlock the doors to everything
And I can see
I ain't wasting no more time

All my hope and all my dreams
Unlock the doors to everything
And I can see
I ain't wasting no more time

All my hope and all my dreams
Unlock the doors to everything
And I can see
I ain't wasting no more time

No more time
No more time

No more time
