

Breaking Out, Breaking Down

Bullet For My Valentine

We could blame, the world's forever
We could just escape together
So are we breaking out or are we breaking down?
We can't blame this world forever, this world forever

The end will never come
There's still a mountain left to climb
But we will overcome
The hurdles placed inside our minds

So close but still so far
Each day will bring us brand new scars
What are we fighting for?
We cannot live like this no more

'Cause in the fake of darkened days, we know

We could blame, the world's forever
We could just escape together
So are we breaking out or are we breaking down?
We can't blame this world forever, this world forever

Just need some clarity
Can't seem to open up these eyes
Don't want your sympathy
It took me time to realize

This is not what I want
Or how I thought this life would be
This is not what we need
So take this shit away from me

'Cause in the thick of darkened days, we know

We could blame, the world's forever
We could just escape together
So are we breaking out or are we breaking down?
We can't blame this world forever, this world forever

So are we breaking out or are we breaking down?
I guess what's done is done but we will overcome

We can't blame, this world's forever
We can't blame the world forever
We could just escape together
So are we breaking out or are we breaking down?
We can't blame this world forever

'Cause in the fake of darkened days we know