I've traveled the sun to beaches far I found a home I came across your face Deep in the cave of unlit sorrow You were the perfect time to waste You wore that mischief smile on your face Across the bar you cut me up Tonight's the night I've had enough I want to slash away at your arms and leave my name, and leave my name Carved into you Like a graveyard matrimony, I want to give a piece of me Halloween eyes are on tonight She cuts me like a butcher's knife She has a shot, I try my luck. Tonight's the night I've had enough Escape the night and you slip outside So far from home Your footsteps fall so softly in the freshly fallen snow I'll follow you home and now I'm never alone. If I send you off first, I promise I'll follow you home.

I'll follow you home.
