

Lay Down Your Guns

Bush

Lay down your guns
Lay down your arms
Lay down
Lay down your head
You can do it
You can do more
You can
You can be light (be light, be light)

You could be wrong you could be mistaken
Shed yourself in a silver light
I was dreaming lost in a moment
I see the war on both sides
It's hard to find a common language
And everybody knows a best way out
It's a question of adaptation
How you move it all comes down

Heyyyyyyyyy, yeah

Lay down your guns
Lay down your arms
Lay down
Lay down your head
You can do it
You can do more
You can
You can be light (be light, be light)

I'll tell you secrets if you tell me lies
I try to find myself in you
I try to understand your reasoning
Why you do the things you do
You could say I that I want and waiting
That I want a brand new life
I wouldn't kill or bury my neighbour
Who cares my wrongs your right

Heyyyyyyyyy, yeah

Lay down your guns
Lay down your arms
Lay down
Lay down your head
You can do it
You can do more
You can
You can be light

How do you sleep when the world dies around you
How do you sleep when it's all over you and me

How do you sleep when the world dies around you
How do you sleep when it's all over you and me

Lay down your guns
Lay down your arms

Lay down
You can do it
You can do more
You can
You can be light

How do you sleep when the world dies around you
How do you sleep when it's all over you and

Lay down your guns
Lay down your arms
Lay down
You can do it
You can do more
You can
You can be light
