

More Than Machines

Bush

Don't step on my toes, let the weather go, it's been a long wait

In bed, say what, we blow, let's go

This is the time to shine, everything wrong should be right

Girls, you in control, not the government, not the government

Nothing changes, never stops

So what? Breathe

We are more than machines, we are because we feel

When everything goes down, it is how we come around

We are more than a dream, but this heart is made of steel

I said I need you now, you are everything to me

More than machines, more than machines, more than machines

Don't forget the code let the wind blow, you can't be assured

Of a window, shame bro, we know you foe

Here is the news in blood, everything wrong should be right

The earth dies, it's a money thing, it's a money thing

Nothing changes, never stops

So what? Breathe

We are more than machines, we are because we feel

When everything goes down, it is how we come around

We are more than a dream, but this heart is made of steel

I said I need you now, you are everything to me

More than machines, more than machines, more than machines

We are more than machines, we are because we feel

When everything goes down, it is how we come around

We are more than a dream, but this heart is made of steel

I said I need you now, you are everything to me

More than machines, more than machines

More than machines, more than machines

More than machines, more than machines

More than machines
