False Light

CABAL

Your idols bring no salvation
Holy cloth will never cover the mark
Empty prayers bring no redemption
False light will never conquer the dark

The fires that you built to light up this world
Eats away at the foundation of life
Every day but won't keep night at bay

Holy cloth will never cover the mark
False light will never conquer the dark

Spare me from the light
I'll choose the night
If this is all there is, I'd rather pray for darkness

So spread your light and say your prayers
You chose your own ruin
Your life is your undoing

I will extinguish the flames of the false tongue
I will drown them in, the blood of the young

Behold the world you built
Consumed by itself
Your promise of salvation
Is your own damnation

Holy cloth will never cover the mark
False light will never conquer the dark
