

It takes more than blood to bind me, and I would rather be bled dry than hear of you, and I I would rather go blind than try to see eye to eye, with the em bodiment of everything I despise

The bond we shared was not of love or of trust
It was forced upon me, and you could never see, how your poison seeped into everything Your blinded eyes never saw anything

Don't speak my name again
We are not and will never be the same
I refuse to share your blame
We are not and will never be the same
Don't speak my name again

They're not, not like us, they are not worthy of our help or tr ust
They're not, not like us is what you said to me and instantly I could see
A rotten apple doesn't fall far from a decaying tree
A life of ignorance and misery
You are not like us
Only the void will set you free

So I'll sever the ties that used to blindly bind
With no regard for wrong or for right
I would rather disappear into the night, than fight your coward ly fight

They're not, not like us, they are not worthy of our help or tr ust
could see
A rotten apple doesn't fall far from a decaying tree
A life of ignorance and misery
You are not like us
Only the void will set you free

I would rather dig your grave, than try to save something so lo st, someone so corrupt
There might be blood but there is no love lost between us
