

Damn You For Breaking My Heart

Caitlyn Smith

Your lies are cheaper than the wine
That we were drinking on the night we lost it all
Wish I could look you in the eye
Instead of looking at the same four empty walls

Try to write it all down, but it doesn't help
Seeing the truth spelled out only makes it worse
Try to swallow the pill, but it doesn't go down
'Cause getting over you doesn't work

Damn you for breaking my
Damn you for breaking my heart
Damn you for breaking my
Damn you for breaking my heart

I light another cigarette
And try to blend into the blue haze of the crowd
I kiss a stranger on the neck
I feel guilty, and my heart shuts down

Damn you for breaking my
Damn you for breaking my heart
Damn you for breaking my
Damn you for breaking my heart, oh

Your love has taken control of me
Taken control of me, taken a toll on me
Damn you for breaking my
Damn you for breaking my heart, oh

I get so mad I see red
Get so deep in my head
Hear your name, and it's all slow motion
Feel a little insane
Like there's venom in my veins
It's like your leaving me again all over

Damn you for breaking my
Damn you for breaking my heart, oh
Damn you for breaking my
Damn you for breaking my heart, oh

Your love has taken control of me
Taken control of me, taken a toll on me
Damn you for breaking my
Damn you for breaking my heart...

(Ooh...)

Your love has taken control
Taken control, taken a toll
Your love has taken control
(Your love has taken control of me)
Taken control, taken a toll
(Taken control of me, taken a toll)
Your love has taken control
(Your love has taken control of me)

Taken control, taken a toll
(Taken control of me, taken a toll)