

Silhouette

Caleb Hearn

Hoodies still stained from your perfume
Should've thrown it out, but I really didn't want to
Your silhouette is framed on the wall of my bedroom
I see you moved on, and it hurts that it's not
How I thought you would leave but you're gone now
I wish you never would've walked out

Cause now I'm staring at the mirror that we both used to know
Back when this felt like forever, oh no

Just break me, you promised me safety
When all I knew was chaos
You told me you'd be there
Break me, I was dumb to think
You would ever love the same
I guess I was a fool

Cause you left me right here
When you said you'd be there

And I don't sit at home cause I know when I'm there
All I think about is times that you were with me
Do you ever even miss me?
And maybe I should try to realize
That there's not, you and I, and forget about our past time
Shoulda known before we flatlined

Cause now I'm staring at this mirror that we both used to know
Back when this felt like forever, oh no

Just break me, you promised me safety
When all I knew was chaos
You told me you'd be there
Break me, I was dumb to think
You would ever love the same
I guess I was a fool

Cause you left me right here
When you said you'd be there

Windows, where I go
I see you on every wall in my home, yeah
Can't sleep in my room cause I still see
You in all the shadows

Just break me, you promised me safety
When all I knew was chaos
You told me you'd be there
