

Strangers Yet

Caleb Hearn

There will be a Friday night
When I won't be the one you call to pick you up
I know there will be a time
When it'll feel like there was never even us

We're not broken
But we're not fine
Here's to hoping
We'll be alright
For just one more night

Don't need a GPS to tell us where we're going
No. We're not lost, darling, we're just going down
I know how the story ends
We're gonna pretend we never met
But I don't wanna be
Strangers yet

I already see it in your eyes
You look at me like I'm somebody you don't recognize
The painful part of this "goodbye"
Is knowing all the ways that I can't make it right

We're not broken
But we're not fine
Here's to hoping
We'll be alright
For just one more night

Don't need a GPS to tell us where we're going
No. We're not lost, darling, we're just going down
I know how the story ends
We're gonna pretend we never met
But I don't wanna be
Strangers yet

Hold me close
Don't let go
Give me just
A moment more

Take my hand
Let's pretend
This might last

I know how the story ends
We're gonna pretend we never met
But I don't wanna be
I'm not ready to be
Strangers yet
