

We're Getting Older

Caleb Hearn

We sleep until 10 with no consequences
Nothing to lose when you're with me
We love to pretend we'll come to our senses, someday
No need to rush 'cause time is cheap

And pretending might feel better
But we can't stay here forever

I know that we're young
But we're getting older
And I might be holding a part of your heart
But we're getting closer

To the day we walk away
To the words we've been too scared to say

It'll be no one's fault when it's over
We're just getting older

I'm used to closing up
To keep peace when things get tough
Why try to fix what's meant to break

But the longer that we keep this going
The more we're gonna end up hurting
I'll always love you in this moment
But every moment fades

I know that we're young
But we're getting older
And I might be holding a part of your heart
But we're getting closer

To the day we walk away
To the words we've been too scared to say

It'll be no one's fault when it's over
We're just getting older, older, older
We're just getting older, older, older

A part of me just wishes I could stay here (wishes I could stay here)
And hold you like we're never gonna grow up (never gonna grow up)
But it don't matter how long we lay here
We're still gonna wake up

To the day we walk away
And all the things we're scared to say
It'll be no one's fault when it's over
We're just getting older
