I Believe in You

Caleb + Kelsey

This is not what you thought it would be
Your dreams collide with reality
You're lost in the fog, no answer in sight
You can't find a pill to make it alright
What would I give to make it alright?

If you ever start doubting
When it's hard to keep hoping
I just want you to know that
I believe in, I believe in you
When you're tired of fighting
And it feels like you're broken
I just want you to know that
I believe in, I believe in you

Running a race with no finish line
Now you're in the fight of your whole life
You work twice as hard to get half as far
Nobody knows the hero you are
I want you to know the hero you are

If you ever start doubting
When it's hard to keep hoping
I just want you to know that
I believe in, I believe in you
When you're tired of fighting
And you feel like you're broken
I just want you to know that
I believe in, I believe in you
I believe in, I believe in you
