Smash

Calexico

Is there anyway I can fix it
Take out my tools, maybe smash with it
Let me destroy the parts that annoy

Swallow the words I'm saving Fumble the chords I'm playing Better just break it apart Then where should they go

But you know I'm just following suit It's something I aim not to do Can't mock up a model, me and you

Is someone out there I can trust The words that never seem to fit [Incomprehensible]

No sense looking backwards Shattered every mirror in my eye Scattering the scrapbook blueprints on the floor

Always thought things would snap into place With a little more ease and grace Still a ship sealed in a bottle Never reaches the sea

And I stash
All of the reasons
Then dash
Them against the wall

And all that I smash Your heart into tiny little pieces And every time this happens It gets harder and harder to built up again
