Califone

Trying to get born all over again
Without a wish without a lie
Without dying all over again
Trying to stop taking it out on you
- cut the connection
just to stitch it together again again again

Chinese opera show me your stitches
Deep sea diver shoes on a wire
The blood left my hands sucking the whiskey out of your hair
The wilderness between the bite marks and scratches
Didn't we fit together like somebody else's sweater
- cut the connection just to stitch it together again again again
