

World Keeps Turning

Candice Alley

So close you know I hear
Sounds far away it's only you
That's keeping me I need
Thoughts go away but only still
When you see my face
Throw all my fears against
Everything you give into
Only to be hear with you

And the world keeps turning over my head honey
When I breathe to stop, and I'm still wondering where your heart is at
When everything goes down
And the world keeps turning over my head honey
When I breathe to stop, and I'll be wondering where your heart is at
When everything goes down

Too long when all I do
Is run away and all my will
To have a moment fill
Your empty head will only still
Never see my face
Throw all my fears against

And the world keeps turning over my head honey
When I breathe to stop, and I'm still wondering where your heart is at
When everything goes down
And the world keeps turning over my head honey
When I breathe to stop, and I'll be wondering where your heart is at
When everything goes down

So when you see my face
Throw all my fears against
And the world keeps turning over my head honey
When I breathe to stop, and I'm still wondering where your heart is at
When everything goes down
And the world keeps turning over my head honey
When I breathe to stop, and I'll be wondering where your heart is at
When everything goes down