

You Will Stay

Candice Alley

Let it go you know you should
Do you feel any better than usual?
I've got an eye on you
Because I see the better kind of you
And even though your name I hear
I'm trying to make it disappear
Lay down and all you get
Are days that you will soon forget

And you will stay
And take all you can take
Away from fears you know
That I won't need them any more
I won't need them any more

You give away what you can't say
And everyday you bring your yesterdays
With not a lot to say
That's what you get for getting in my way
And if I changed my mind
Would it make you take your time?
If I could make you see, only
More misunderstood you'd be

And you will stay
And take all you can take
Away from fears you know
That I won't need them any more
I won't need them any more

And the some one that you've undone
Will bring nothing to everyone, but you stay
And soon enough, you'll give it up
And sure enough you'll find reason to wait

And you will stay
And take all you can take
Away from fears you know
That I won't need them any more
I won't need them any more