Crumbling

Capsize

So much lost time, so many wasted years.
Searching for better things but there's nothing to be found her e.
And everybody questions why they can't find the time to smile.

In a world where everyone shops for status,
Happiness is lost in the isles.
And when your self worth is only your possessions
It won't be long till all you own is your own depression.

Everyone need something, something to hold on to.
But all I've got is this music that no one understands.
Everyone has something, something to hold on to.
Well, all I've got I the music that no one understands.

Quick to judge, quick to turn away.
And so I'll scream, since no one cares what I have to say.
Quick to judge, quick to turn away.
And so I'll scream, since no one cares what I have to say.

The world around me is filled with nothing but a fucked up soci ety.
I'll tear past it all in hopes to find a better place for me.

I watched the rise and fall.
I watched it die.
I watched the rise and fall.
I watched it die.
I watched the rise and fall.
I watched it die.
