

Ode To The Snow

Carbon Leaf

Snowfall requires listening
And the silence it brings is deafening
As it whispers it echoes echoes through my bones

Bury me like silent peace
These gifts they fall like ancient memories
Like voices from the past cascading down

And the stillness drifts back in like possibility
And in the silence is where you find the song
And I'm blinded by the ease of letting go
Worlds shutting down... Just an ode to the snow

Tree limbs bend and spring up again
The snowfall fumbling down through the pines
To baptize, to confirm the frozen hallowed ground

Exhume my youth, everlasting change
Blankets entomb, the dreary colors fade
And I'm reminded to the time when I did everything

When the stillness drifts back in like possibility
And in the silence is where you find the song
And I'm blinded by the ease of letting go
Worlds shutting down... Just an ode to the snow

When the stillness drifts back in like possibility
And in the silence is where you find the song
When I'm blinded by the ease of letting go
Worlds shutting down... Just an ode to the snow
Worlds shutting down... Just an ode to the snow
